THE GREAT REPUTATION

Which VEGETINE has attained in all parts of the country as a

and the large number of testimonials which are constantly being received from persons who have been cured by its use, are conclusive proof of its great value. It is recommended by physicians and apothecaries. As a Blood-Purifier and Health-Restorer, it has no equal.

VEGETINE is not prepared for a fancy drink made from poor liquors, which debilitates the system and tends to destroy health instead of restoring it.

Are not the many testimonials given for the different complaints satisfactory to any reasonable persons suffering from disease that they can be cured? Read the different testimonials given, and no one can doubt. In many of these cases the persons say that their pain and suffering can not be expressed, as in cases of Scrofula, where, apparently, the whole body was one mass of corruption. If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can be truly called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take and is perfectly safe to give an infant. Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it.

CANNOT BE EXCELLED.

CHARLESTOWN, March 19, 1869.

H. R. STEVENS:—

DEAR SIR—This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" in my family for several years, and I think that for Scrofula or Cankerous Humors, or Rheumatic Affections, it cannot be excelled; and as a blood purifier and spring medicine, it is the best thing I have ever used; and I have used almost everything. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. A. A. DINSMORE,

WHAT IS NEEDED.

BOSTON, Feb. 13, 1871.

HENRY R. STEVENS, Esq:—

DEAR SIR—About one year since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. VEGETINE was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefited by its use. I procured the article, and, after using several bottles, was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine superior to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared; and would cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health. Respectfully yours,

U. L. PETTENGILL,

H. R. STEVENS, Esq:—

DEAR SIR—I have had Dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking the VEGETINE, since which time my health has steadily improved. My food digests well; and I have gained fifteen pounds of flesh. There are several others in this place taking VEGETINE; and all have obtained relief. Yours truly, Bowdoin Commencement.

Annual Meeting of the Alumni Association.

Oration of Dr. Hill—Meeting of the Boards—The Concert.

[Special to Press.]

BRUNSWICK, July 12.—The Alumni Association met in the chemical lecture room at 9 o'clock this morning, Prof. Egbert C. Smyth of Andover, presiding. The Treasurer of the Association, Prof. J. B. Sewall, made his report, from which it appears that the receipts for the year have been $632.56; expenditures, $646.38; balance in the treasury, $6.08. The total debt on Memorial Hall is $6,835.77. Various plans were suggested for freeing the association from the debt, but the following offered by Prof. Sewall was adopted: "A Memorial Fund Association shall be formed, its object being to create a fund for the payment of the interest upon the debt for Memorial Hall, and to this end we agree to pay annually, on or before commencement day, beginning with this day, July 13, 1876, to the treasurer of the Alumni Association, the sums set to our names."

On motion of Mr. Northend of Salem, it was voted that last year's request for the college to pay for the use of Memorial Hall, be renewed this year.

President—Prof. Egbert C. Smyth of Andover.

Secretary and Treasurer—Prof. H. S. Chapman of Brunswick.

Executive Committee—John Marshall Brown of Portland, Hon. T. W. Hyde of Bath and Alfred Mitchell, M. D., Brunswick.

Rev. R. B. Howard was chosen Chaplain and S. C. Boardman, Marshal.

The trustees and overseers met in the forenoon and transacted some considerable business, but little of which is of public importance. Various committees were appointed and the finances of the college discussed. The boards approved very highly of the idea of Prof. Carmichael in establishing a school of instruction in the sciences to continue through the summer, and granted him the use of the necessary rooms and apparatus for the school.

It was voted to pay the salaries Sept. 30th, Dec. 31st, March 31st and June 30th of each year.

It was voted to establish a professorship of modern languages to be called the Longfellow professorship in honor of Prof. H. W. Longfellow.

On recommendation of the medical faculty the following persons received the degrees of M. D.:

John Lang Bennett, Josiah Peet Bixby, Roscoe Ellsworth Brown, Hiram Rand Corson, James Craig, Thomas de la Cour des Brisay, Irving Ellis Kimball, George Willard Libby, Herbert McLochlin, George Frank Merrill, Albert Roscoe Moulton, Charles Eliakim Norton, Frank Alvin Rogers, William Luther Sampson, Albert Linscott Stanwood, Gerge Lamb Stimpson, William Hillman Sylvester, Walter Lessley Turner, Abram Gullerimo Wendell, Jacob Brackett Wentworth, William Asa Wheeler.

Voted, That in case of a vacancy in the medical faculty or the failure of any lecturer or professor to perform the duties assigned to him, the medical faculty have power to appoint lecturers for next course.

More business will come before the Boards in the morning.

The base ball nine played an exhibition game with the Eclectrics of Brunswick in the morning, defeating them by a score of 12 to 5. The alumni were much interested and pleased with the nine.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, the alumni, headed by the band, marched from the chapel to the church. The chaplain offered prayer and then followed Dr. Hill's oration.

The orator began by acknowledging his debt of gratitude, owed for nearly half a century, to Professor Cleveland, and for more than a third of a century to Professor Longfellow of Bowdoin, for their stimulus and help to him, one in the pursuit of science, the other in the appreciation of belles-lettres. From this he passed to a consideration of the two great divisions of human knowledge, Science and Philosophy; Science dealing with Time and Space, and the universe of matter floating therein; while Philosophy deals with thoughts, emotions, and purposes, either as displayed in human words and actions, or as displayed in the dealings of the Higher Power which has created and which rules the world. Dr. Hill then glanced for a moment at the two different modes in which every topic, both in Science and in Philosophy, may be approached; the one mode seeking only an intellectual apprehension of the theme; the other a practical mastery for the uses of life. Returning then to the comparison between Science and Philosophy, he said that he thought a great danger threatened our modern education; the danger of exalting Science and forgetting that she has no value nor dignity except as the handmaid of Philosophy.

Apologizing for quoting St. Paul in a sense not intended by St. Paul, he said, "that is not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural, and afterwards that which is spiritual." Ralph Waldo Emerson says that every natural fact is a symbol of some spiritual fact; and language consists of figures of speech, living or fossil. The obvious corollary was that a man is able to express himself in proportion to his knowledge of the facts of nature. To extend intellectually our relations with external nature was the grand object of physical science, but if that object were made the ultimate end, it at once lost all dignity and grandeur. To say that the sole object of Science is to discover the uniformities of external nature; that the sole religion and morality of a man enlightened by science is the endeavor to adjust his life to those uniformities, was equivalent to saying that there is no meaning in the book of nature; that we may analyze and parse her language but not understand its import. And this was equivalent to saying that there is no science possible; that all which we can attain is empiric laws. But the true aim of Science was not simply to discover the uniformities of nature, it was to discover their conformity to ideal laws. He affirmed that the great questions of efficient and final cause were even to the present day the most fruitful source of scientific discovery.

Moreover, said he, when Science is regarded as mere empiricism, as a mere recording of the uniformities of nature and condensing those records into the briefest formula of expression, it ceases to have any high intellectual value and interest. In the presence of the Infinite all finites are zero; and if Science does not unfold to us the thoughts of the Infinite God, and show us that our minds have been made in the image of the Almighty; if she is simply busy with the modes of motion in a few million tons of matter—then she is nothing and doing nothing; let her be given over to the satire of Swift's Voyage to Laputa, and to the contempt of Johnson in the Rambler. Alphonso might well ridicule the epicycles of Hipparchus considered merely as a mechanism of the heavens; but when modern science shows that the ancient astronomer has been unconsciously reproducing very nearly the mechanism which gives the human hand and fingers their perfect freedom—those epicycles are invested with new and transcendent dignity as showed the likeness of Hipparchus to his Creator.

Science was ever reverently seeking to unfold the harmonies of creation; to discover the logical connection, the co-existence and wisdom of the Divine Thought on which the universe is built. The triumphs of Science were the inheritance of the race; the fullest benefits were reserved for those who had a catholic sympathy with sacrifice workers. But the benefits were lost to those whose attention was so absorbed in the work of science as to make them forget the end for which that work is undertaken.

The speaker thought a man would be apt to treat himself as that which he conceived himself to be; and illustrated it by the case of a man whose brain had been injured by dissipation, and called himself a poor dog until he thought he was one, and began to bark incessantly. So let a man think himself an accidental result of molecular forces, tossing blindly for millions of ages, perishing when the forms were not seaworthy, surviving when they took better forms or found calmer seas, and that man would be apt to limit his morality to external utility; and must have a fine nature if he did not limit his ideas of utility by his own selfishness and indolence. But let a man see that in human nature is something nearer akin to the Unseen Source, than to the visible phenomena of the universe, and that vision of truth will be a stimulus to a high noble life.

The speaker then drew a contrast between the influence of Greece and Rome, arising primarily, as he thought, from the fundamental difference in their philosophy and their view of the nature of Science. The Romans, like the modern positivist, considered geometry as dealing with the measurement of material objects, and the result was fatal to geometry and to physical science, and injurious to the fine arts. The Greek, on the other hand, at least from Plato's time, regarded geometry neither as dealing with matter, nor abstract measurement, but with the eternal verities of space, the uncreated ideal form, on which the Infinite Mind patterned from the beginning the things which appear; so that he who studied geometry was holding communion with the Divine, the Everlasting Thought which formed and guides the universe. Under the stimulus of this elevating view, the Greeks pushed the mathematics, the physical sciences, and the fine arts, to a degree of perfection marvellous even in our day; their works had been a priceless legacy to all succeeding generations. The glorious light which beamed from the Acropolis and from the Academy was nearly extinguished a century and a half before the Christian era, and never resumed its splendor. The darkness of the Roman view of science lay like the shadow of an eclipse over the civilized world for more than a thousand years; and when it passed, it was the writings of the idealistic Greek that brought in the new light of the modern day. And if now we allowed the Roman view of science, that it is only the measurement of material objects, to prevail; it would be the worst calamity imaginable. A scientific writer has recently declared that a man can owe no duties to himself or to his God, but only to his fellow-men; and that these are measured and judged solely by the observed utility of actions. This was degrading ethics to a level with Roman geometry; and if that Roman error with reference to the lowest science threw the long shadow of the dark ages over the whole of Europe,—what Dante could paint the thousand years of horror which would follow the prevalence of the same error in this high Science?

The safeguard against these dangers was to be found in the colleges clinging firmly to philosophical and historical studies, as the basis and substance of their curriculum. No young man could be considered liberally educated, if his studies had not embraced a fair proportion of historical and metaphysical themes. In a good undergraduate course the student ought to gain at least some slight acquaintance with the principles of philology, rhetoric, logic, metaphysics, ethics, æsthetics, the fine arts, civil and constitutional law; some slight acquaintance with the facts of literary, industrial, military and political history. Special acquaintance with a chosen branch would be aided by some slight acquaintance with all branches. The student should at least be taught to respect the attainment of specialists in all other branches. As instances of false spirit in this respect the orator referred to two of his own correspondents, one of whom was a scientific man, confessing to an extreme dislike of metaphysics and theology, yet writing on metaphysical and theological themes, and trying to show that a vast majority of special writers in these departments are fundamentally wrong; the other was a man of some metaphysical ability and religious spirit, confessing to an extreme dislike of mathematics, yet entering into a long argument to prove that the Pythagorean proposition, and the ratio 3.1410 are numerically erroneous, and lead to mistakes in mechanic arts and physical sciences. One correspondent had failed to convince him of the error of modern mathematics, the other had equally failed to convince him of the invalidity of theistic inductions; he held to both geometry and theology. In giving that education which should open the sympathies of the student with all honest workers, and which should at the same time train the mind to hold fast every result once gained, proceeding with equal caution and firmness in the advance upon the knowable unknown, it had been the great mistake of fifty years ago, to ignore so largely the methods and principles of natural science; admirably adapted as they were to cultivate the power and habit of exact observation, accurate imagination, and careful induction. But it would be a still more injurious mistake to yield to the demands of physicists, intoxicated with the brilliancy of their half century's success, and asking that the methods of natural science should take the place in our higher education, due to philosophy, to the interrogation of consciousness and of history. Science herself would suffer by the change, and the moral and social condition of mankind still more severely. The sciences of mathematics, mechanics, physiology, palaeontology, and geology were of high importance, their successful pursuit was essential to the national welfare. Yet not one of them had a direct bearing upon the vital issues before the American people; not one threw any light on the stagnation of trade, the mode of reviving the industries of the country, of bringing the currency to par, of securing reform in the civil service, of diminishing crime, preventing poverty, banishing social vices, protecting the hallowed sanctity of the family, preventing the recurrence of war.

But these highest ends were directly affected by historical and philosophical studies; and the orator trusted that in the halls of Bowdoin science would ever lead to philosophy, and philosophy to virtue and integrity and wisdom.

In the evening a very large and fashionable audience assembled in the church on the hill, for the concert by Miss Annie Louise Cary, Mrs. Smith, Messrs. Whitney and Stockbridge, with the Boston Philharmonic Club. Miss Cary is an old favorite at Bowdoin and was, of course, enthusiastically received.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—At an informal caucus of a number of Democratic Congressmen yesterday, held to discuss the deadlock on the appropriation bills, a resolution was taken to demand of Mr. Randall a policy calculated to bring about an agreement between the two houses, otherwise they, the protesting Democrats, would vote against Randall and unite with the minority in securing an early passage of the appropriation bills.

Mr. Tyner Confirmed Postmaster General

Executive Nominations.

The following nominations were sent to the Senate today: James S. Delano of Illinois, deputy 2d comptroller of the Treasury; Thomas B. Shannon collector of customs at San Francisco; Thomas R. Bennett of Idaho to be governor of Idaho Territory, and a number of naval promotions.

The Whisky Investigation.

The sub-committee of the committee to inquire into the St. Louis whisky trials today examined Grand Juryman Fox of St. Louis. He was closely questioned as to his conversation with the President when he came here in March last just after the Babcock trial. Witness said the conversation was very brief and was confined mostly to the attitude taken by Henderson and Dyer towards the President during the Avery trial. Witness told the President he thought Dyer was as bad as Henderson in his course and remarks towards the President. He was asked what Dyer did and he said Dyer came before the grand jury and was very forward about telling what he knew and volunteered so much information that he (witness) was compelled to check him and insist he be sworn if he was going to make such statements.

The Pacific Railroads.

The bill reported from the Senate Judiciary Committee today regarding Pacific railroads provides that their net earnings be ascertained by deducting only actual operating expenses from the gross receipts without any allowance for interest payments. The other main provisions require that companies shall pay annually into the U. S. Treasury to create a sinking fund such sums respectively as will aggregate in connection with the 5 per cent. payments, and the amounts earned for government transportation 25 per cent. of their respective net receipts as above defined, and if this should leave them unable to pay their interest on prior mortgages the Secretary of the Treasuay may abate the 25 per cent. requirement sufficiently to allow paramount claims to be satisfied. The amount of the annual payments are estimated by the bill at $1,500,000 each for the Union and Central Pacific companies and $350,000 for the Kansas Pacific.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Among the names more prominently mentioned in connection with the appointment of Internal Revenue Commissioner is that of Congressman Kelly of Connecticut.

It is not probable that Commissioner Pratt will give much attention to the internal revenue bureau from this date to July 31, when his resignation takes effect.

Caldwell's Affidavit.

A Complete Exoneration of Mr. Blaine.

BOSTON, July 12.—The Herald publishes an interview of its special correspondent with Josiah Caldwell at his business office, 115 Cannon street, in which the latter asserts the genuineness of the despatches sent to the investigating committee, and emphatically exonerates Mr. Blaine from the charge of being interested in the 75 bonds sold to Tom Scott. On the 22d of June, Mr. Caldwell, having been absent on the Continent, returned to London, answered the telegram at once, and on the 24th forwarded by mail the following deposition, which appears in to-day's Boston Herald:

Josiah Caldwell of Boston, Mass., U. S. A., now in the city of London, Eng., on oath deposes and says:

That he is the person referred to in the testimony of Colonel Thomas A. Scott before the Congressional Committee of the United States House of Representatives, charged with investigating the sale of seventy-five bonds of the Little Rock and Fort Smith railroad company by the said Colonel Thomas A. Scott to the Union Pacific railroad company, and the alleged connection of the Hon. James G. Blaine therewith, and

That this deponent sold the said bonds to the the said Colonel Thomas A. Scott sometime during the year 1870; that this deponent was then, and for a long time before had been largely interested in the construction of the said railroad of said company; that the said transaction between the said Colonel Thomas A. Scott and this deponent was a ligitimate and ordinary business one of purchase and sale; that this deponent does not recollect whether the price this deponent received for said 75 bonds was at the rate of 80 cents on the dollar or not, but he does recollect that it was about that price; that the said Colonel Thomas A. Scott paid the full amount of said purchase money to this deponent in cash, and further:

That the deponent is personally acquainted with James G. Blaine, late Speaker of the United States House of Representatives; that he was in no way connected with or interested in said transaction between the said Col. Thos. A. Scott and this deponent concerning the sale and purchase of said 75 bonds, nor was he interested in said bonds or any of them; that he never spoke or wrote to said Colonel Thomas A. Scott in the behalf of this deponent concerning these or any other bonds so far as this deponent knows or has knowledge or belief; that this deponent never gave the said James G. Blaine, directly or indirectly, any Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad bonds or any other bonds, securities, money or things of value, or things representing value for any purpose whatever; that this deponent has carefully read the testimony of said Colonel Thomas A. Scott, as reported in the New York Daily Tribune of May 16, 1876, and that the same discloses all the facts connected with the said transaction, concerning the sale and purchase of said 75 bonds between the said Colonel Thomas A. Scott and this deponent; and further

That this deponent would be quite willing to attend before said investigating committee, and submit himself to the fullest examination the committee might desire, if he could do so without great sacrifice, if not irreparable loss and damage; that he is engaged in important and valuable railroad contracts and matters which require his constant personal supervision and attention, and the attendance at the present time is entirely impracticable.

Forty-Fourth Congress—First Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12,

The Senate went into executive session and after a short time the doors were again reopened.

The Chair laid before the Senate the House bill to amend the Pacific Railroad act, which was read by title.

Mr. Edmunds moved the bill be referred to the judiciary.

Mr. Hamlin presented the credentials of J. G. Blaine appointed United States Senator in place of Lot M. Morrill, resigned. They were read and placed on file.

Mr. Thurman from the Committee on Judiciary, reported back the resolution of the Senate of January last, instructing the committee to inquire into various matters relating to the Pacific Railroads, the three bills introduced by Dorsey and West in January and March last to amend the Pacific Railroad acts, together, with a written report and a bill to amend and alter the Pacific Railroad acts of 1852 and 1864. It was ordered that the report be printed and the bill placed on the calendar.

Mr. Logan of Illinois moved to take up the House bill for the equalization of bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the Union so it would be unfinished business in the morning hour to-morrow.

The Chair ruled that it could not be called up in the morning as unfinished business, but must be taken up by vote each day.

Mr. Logan moved to make the bill a special order for some future day.

Messrs. Edmunds, Saulsbury and others objected.

On motion of Mr. Paddock the Senate joint resolution authorizing the President of the United States to accept the services of volunteers to aid in suppressing the Sioux Indian hostilities in the northwest was taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs

Mr. Wright, from the Committee on Claims, reported adversely on the Senate bill declaring the effects of permits to purchase the products of the insurrectionary states in certain cases by the President of the United States, and it was indefinitely postponed.

Senate at 12.15 resumed the consideration of the articles of impeachment against Gen. Belknap.

J. L. Fisher was sworn and examined by Mr. McMahon. Witness was a member of the firm of J. T. Evans & Co., post-traders at Fort Sill. John S. Evans held the appointment of post-trader there. The firm carried on a stock of goods valued at $40,000 to $80,000. Evans held a petition signed by the officers of the post and recommending his appointment. The firm paid money on account of the appointment. Paid it to Caleb P. Marsh. Thought the money was paid quarterly in advance. The firm at first paid $12,000 per annum and afterwards $6000. The money was remitted regularly. The amount was changed in the spring of 1872 after the publication of the article in the New York Tribune, when the amount was reduced to $6000. It was paid half yearly in advance. The firm made the last payment in October, 1875, and that was understood to be up to the 15th of April, 1876. Money was paid regularly to maintain the position. The Secretary of War never addressed me any communication in regard to this matter neither did he to the firm.

Cross-examined by Carpenter.

Witness knew E. B. Durfee did not know that he was ever a partner of J. S. Evans or interested with him in any business. Received the Evans contract with Marsh and paid money in accordance. Carpenter then submitted in evidence the letter of Caleb P. Marsh and Hon. Hester Clymer, dated New York, Feb. 25, 1876, to the effect that there never was any agreement between the Secretary of War and himself.

Heister Clymer, chairman of the House committee on expenditures in the War department, was recalled and testified that a portion of the testimony of Marsh was in his own handwriting.

The testimony for defence was then commenced. Maj. Gen. John Pope was sworn and examined by Carpenter. He testified that Fort Sill was in the department he commanded. Applications to sell liquor were always sent to the War department for his approval. Witness was then asked about the extension of the Fort Sill reservation, but the managers objected on the ground that the order was on the subject and would be found in the war department and need not be testified by witness. Objection was sustained.

Witness knew of instances where the post-trader or sutler did not reside at his post prior to the order of March 25, 1870. Had known Gen. Belknap since 1870. He knew of no reason why the general official conduct of that officer had not been honorable and upright.

Carpenter then submitted a letter from Lieut. Gen. Sherman, dated Chicago, March 9, 1872, stating he had examined the circular on the subject of post-traders, issued on the 25th of March, and thought well of it. So far as the troops were concerned it was especially fair.

Gen. Robert McHurley, Commissary General of subsistence, testified he had been stationed on the Western frontier previous to 1860. Knew of one instance at Fort Brady where the sutler resided away from the post. Previous to the order of March 26, 1872, there was no regulation requiring post-traders to reside at their posts. Witness has been Commissary-General of subsistence since April, 1875, and so far as he had any knowledge the management of the War department under Gen. Belknap was characterized by honesty and justice.

Adjt. Gen. Townsend testified he forwarded the letter of Marsh making application for that post-tradership and also the letter of General Grierson complaining of the abuses at Fort Sill to the Secretary of War through the ordinary course of business.

Col. Nelson H. Davis, Inspector General, testified that he knew the post-traders Durfee and Peck. They had Forts Rice, Stevenson and Sulley.

Before proceeding further with the examination of witness, Carpenter said he desired to state to the Senate that it was impossible for defence to go on without the witness Evans, and he asked the court to adjourn over a reasonable time to allow witness to get there.

The managers objected and argued that defence should be compelled to go on with the trial.

After a discussion between counsel and managers, Mr. Conkling submitted the following, which was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Senate will receive any evidence otherwise competent which counsel for respondent says will be connected with the case by the testimony of the witness Evans, now absent, but who has been summoned and expected to appear.

Col. Davis testified that so far as his knowledge went the manner in which the War Department had been conducted by the late Secretary of War was good. His character had been one of integrity and honesty. Knew of nothing to the contrary.

Major General W. S. Hancock was called, but it was announced he was too sick to attend today.

A. F. Crosby, chief clerk of the War Department, testified that after the passage of the law of 1870 in regard to post-traders, the Secretary of War called upon all the department commanders to report the names of persons acting as post-traders within the limits of their command. Witness produced a book of the Department in regard to post-traders' applications and testified Evans was recommended by all the officers at Fort Sill. J. C. Dent was appointed post-trader at Fort Union. There were about 100 posts throughout the country. Not more than two of them had more than one trade. Witness understood that the order of March 25, 1872, prepared by Gen. McDowell was for the purpose of correcting the abuses complained of in the New York Tribune article. The paragraphs in the order according to my understanding were framed to remedy charges contained in the Tribune article. Witness here produced the indices of semi-official matters, etc., received by the Secretary of War and testified he kept the indices and entered upon them everything he thought it material to remember.

The letter of C. P. Marsh requesting that the appointment of post-trader at Fort Sill be made out in the name of John S. Evans was received October 10, 1870, and was dated New York, October 8.

Cross-examined by McMahon.

Many of the letters mentioned in the evidence were on the official files of the department. Witness here read from an entry in regard to the Marsh letter to the effect that he was recommended by Senator Sherman and Hon. Job Stevenson, and testified that he could not remember whether there was a letter from Gen. Sherman or not. Did not remember of having been directed by the Secretary of War to enter on the books "recommended by Senator Sherman and Hon. Job Stevenson."

The defence here submitted an extract from the report of the Secretary of War dated Nov. 20, 1875, calling attention to the law providing for the appointment of post-traders, suggesting that the law be passed giving the appointment of sutlers to the department commanders.

Maj. N. B. McLaughlin of the 10th cavalry, was sworn and testified he had been a member of the council of administration at Fort Sill and recommended the reappointment of John S. Evans as post-trader there a short time ago.

Brig. Gen. C. C. Ayer testified that so far as he knew and so far as he had relation with Gen. Belknap, his administration was regarded as a just and able one.

Ex-Governor Ralph C. Low of Iowa, testified that he had known Gen. Belknap intimately for about a quarter of a century. His character was good. He understood that the collections of internal revenue in his district at the time he was collector, were large.

Hon. Wm. B. Allison, Senator from Iowa, testified he had known Gen. Belknap since 1857. His general character and reputation in Iowa was good.

Hon. Geo. G. Wright, U. S. Senator from Iowa, testified he had known Gen. Belknap 25 years. His general reputation in Iowa was good. Never heard his integrity questioned.

Brig. Gen. Ayer, Superintendent of West Point Military Academy, Gen. S. V. Bennet, Chief of Ordnance U. S. A., and Gen. A. A. Humphries, Chief of Engineer Corps U. S. A., testified that the reputation of Gen. Belknap as Secretary had been high as a man of integrity and ability.

Testimony of a similar nature was given by Judge Advocate General Dunn of the army, Judge Miller of the Supreme Court and Representative Kasson, after which Mr. Carpenter moved an adjournment of the court till the arrival of the witness Evans.

Without action thereon court adjourned till to-morrow.

Senate resumed consideration of legislative business.

Mr. Hamlin moved to take up the post route bill so as to have it as unfinished business to-morrow. Agreed to.

Adjourned till to-morrow.

Mr. Hewitt from the committee on foreign affairs, reported back the resolution declaring the action of Robert C. Schenck while U. S. minister to England, in becoming a director of the Emma Mine Co., and his operations in connection with the shares of said company, and the venders thereof as ill-advised, unfortunate and incompatible with the duties of his position. Adopted without discussion or a division.

The House at 2 o'clock went into committee of the whole, (Monroe of Ohio, in the chair), on the bill for the protection of the Rio Grande frontier from cattle thieves and marauders, from the Mexican side of the river.

Mr. Townsend of N. J., in course of his speech commented severely on the democratic policy of cutting down the strength of the army below what he called the present pitable figure of 25,000 men, and asserted it as much to a desire to get rid of colored regiments as to the professed purpose of economy.

Mr. Stevenson of Ill., argued against that section of the bill which authorized American troops to cross the Rio Grande into Mexican in pursuit of marauders.

The committee rose without action.

On motion of Banning of Ohio, Senate amendment to bill in relation to leave of absence of army officers was concurred in.

WASHINGTON, July 12—The following was received last night:

CHICAGO, July 11.

Gen. W. T. Sherman:

There is nothing new from the Indian country. Detachments of the 22d are en route and the 5th will go to morrow. Heard from Merritt to-day and will probably hear from Crook to-night. P. H. SHERIDAN.

Indian Barbarities.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Specials from Sioux city say the Indians arriving there from the battle with Custer gave an account of the barbarious treatment of the bodies of the deceased. "Rain the Face" cut the heart from Custer's dead body, put it on a pole and a grand war dance was held around it. The Indians were jubilant, boastful and sanguine of making better terms on account of their success.

Dissatisfaction in Servia.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Turkish minister has received the following despatch:

The Servians attacked the battery of Eski Kilise belonging to the fortification of Yeni-bazar on the river Ibar and routed after two hours' engagement. They left on the battle field more than 500 dead, a large number of wounded and a large quantity of rifles and gilberts. Our artillery broke to pieces the cannon which the enemy had placed on the eminence opposite our battery. In an engagement which took place our troops completely defeated the Servians and captured by assault intrenchments, ammunition, arms, artillery and everything, the Servians losing many hundred men.

LONDON, July 12.—The Times says:

The prevailing impression is that the Servian invasion is at an end, and the question now is whether the Turks will we able to carry the war across the Servian frontier and obtain the great political advantage of negotiating while in possession of conquered territory.

The Daily News Belgrade special says it is stated that the Bashi Basconks in Tabarbazardick district af Bulgaria, boastfully paraded a cartload of heads of murdered women and children.

Zach becomes war minister.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 12.—The Turkish war minister has resolved to assimilate the Bashi Bazouks with the regular troops. The engagements between the Turks and Servians yesterday was unimportant.

It is officially announced that the government is again compelled to postpone the payment of interest on the public debt. The measures concerted with the Imperial Ottaman Bank for the collection of revenue for service of the national debt, will be carried out as soon as circumstances permit.

RAGUSA, July 12.—Gen. Paulovick with 6000 insurgents has arrived in the neighborhood of Klek. He met with no resistance on the way. The route by the way of Klek to the interior is closed.

Intelligence from Slavonic sources announce that the Montenegrins and insurgents occupied the interior Turkish territory southeast of Montenegro, but were dislodged by the Turks from Scutari. Both sides suffered considerably. Another body of Montenegrins under Prince Nicholas is marching in the direction of Gatschko.

Sclavonic advices announce that a force of 5000 Turks attacked the villages of Kerguzee and Tchza on Monday. The Turks were defeated and driven to Muritz where they embarked on steamers on the lake of Scuton. Turks lost 400 and the Montenegrins 100. The latter captured a convoy of prisoners.

VIENNA, July 12.—It is stated in diplomatic circles that Russia will not take any steps in the Eastern question without an understanding with all the great powers. Consequently the general peace of Europe will not be affected.

Both sides are taking advantage of the present pause in active operations to bring up reinforcements. The Servians are organizing guerilla bands, one of which, numbering 3000, has advanced to within two hours march of Widdin.

Belgrade advices announce that the main body of Montenegrins is advancing on Mottor. Laschjaver, who defends the frontier at Sartchar, has received reinforcements of 7000 men. Gen. Olympies has formed 6000 Bosnians into regiments. Gen. Tchernayeff is engaged in organizing Bulgarian bands near Ak Palanda.

LONDON, July 1s—The Standard's Vienna telegram says that according to private intelligence the conservative party of Servia are conspiring to remove the present ministry with a view of inducing Prince Milan to seize the first chance that presents itself for proposing an armistice. It is said that the officers who opposed Tchernayeff's tactics are implicated in this conspiracy.

The Standard's Paris telegram says telegrams received here show that the position of Servia is not quite so central as supposed yesterday. It is reported that the rumor that Servia was asking Russia to intercede for an armistice is nothing but a bourse manœuvre.

A drove of cattle passing through the streets last night awoke slumberers, who supposed a mob was in the streets from the noise made.

Noise.

Mr. Editor—The noise of a great city is one of the serious drawbacks to life in town; and the quiet of the country one of the reasons why (ceteris paribus) rural life tends to restore health. One of the highest duties of a municipal government is, therefore, to preserve quiet in the city; to reduce its noises to a minimum. To permit the use of fire-arms and explosive fire-works, drums and other martial noise, loud shouting and boisterous singing, within the limits of the more thickly settled parts of the town, seems to me to be rather Mongolian than Caucasian, and is certainly inconsistent with that sacred regard for the rights of others which is the pride and glory of the Anglo Saxon.

Two years ago when Barnum's show made a parade through our city, one invalid was so much affected by the noise that she suffered from it for two or three weeks; this was in my own knowledge, and there were probably other similar cases in the city. This very year I know of one sick person who, although not living on the line of the procession, was so much injured by the noise of Independence Day that it was necessary to give anodynes, and injurious effects remained for many days.

When I moved into the house where I now live, the vicinity of a little park was held up as an inducement for me to come. But in this park there has been several times already this summer, boisterous singing at night, with which the police did not appear to interfere. Last evening, July 10, there was apparently a choir of thirty or forty men, shouting songs from before midnight until half-past twelve, in such a noisy way as not only to waken but to frighten my servant and two other members of my family. And I happen to know that there are several families, near to the park as I, in each of which there are persons out of health, to whom such noises are as annoying as they can be to me.

It is partly want of reflection that leads people to make these noisy manifestations of high spirits. They like the sound of cannon, bells, guns, pistols and crackers, shouting and huzzas and it does not occur to them that in the very next house there may be some poor sufferer to whom every one of the sounds gives keenest torture; and whose recovery of health may be deferred or absolutely prevented, by these outbursts of his neighbor's high health. H. T.

BARNUM'S GREAT SHOW.—After reading the advertisement in our columns the large majority of our subscribers will doubtless agree with us that the Centennial year would not amount to much to most people, were it not for that wonderful incarnation of American nerve and originality, P. T. Barnum. Rightly concluding that, this particular season, even such exhibitions as he has been accustomed to give would not entirely satisfy the public, and especially those unable to visit Philadelphia, he has added to a show, so great that three monster special trains of his own solid steel cars are requirto convey it, a comprehensive and inspiring Centennial celebration, replete with genuine Fourth of July features, and commemorating novels of his own designing. This extraordinary combination of exhibitions and jubilee will show in this city on the 17th and 18th inst. The inside attractions of this greatest show on earth are included in a vast menagerie of rarest animals, including the only living Hippopotamus in America; a Centennial Museum, boasting of a world of wonders, an automatic institute operated by a solid silver steam engine, and the best equestrian and gymnastic talent that four united great circus companies can furnish.

REUNION.—The members of the Fifth Maine Regimental Association celebrate their tenth annual reunion on Thursday, July 27th, by a pic-nic at Pine Pond Beach, on the line of the Boston and Maine Railroad. The pavilion at this place has been secured for the occasion, and there will be liberal prizes for target shooting. We understand they have secured the services of the Continental Band and propose to turn out every available man for the grand soldiers reunion August 9th and 10th.

EXCURSIONS.—A large crowd went to Saco River yesterday, and it was a lively affair. The Portland Band furnished music for the dancing.

The First Parish Sunday School go to the Two Lights this morning. An abundance of pic-nic wagons will be provided for all who wish to go.

To-morrow the New Church go to Little Chebeague on their annual excursion.

HOT.—The weather yesterday was most uncomfortable. The thermometer ranged among the nineties and all who could left the city for the Islands. All of the steamers took large parties. A huge fog bank hung over the harbor, making the air about the Islands the exact opposite from that in the city. In the evening a gentle breeze floated over the city, cooling the air to quite an extent. No disastrous results are reported from the heat.

POLICE.—Officers Merrill and Rich arrested a young man yesterday who was one of the number engaged in the larceny of a barrel of beer from Washington street a few days since.

Arthur Libby, who was recently sentenced to the Alms House, escaped yesterday, but was recaptured.

Personal.

Mayor Fessenden leaves the city this morning for a short visit to the Isle of Shoals.

Wm. E. Stevens, Esq., of Concord, N. H, formerly an officer in the 5th Maine regiment, has an appointment on Gov. Cheney's staff.

Mr. E. F. Perry of the Boston Herald is visiting his father, Hon. John. J. Perry of this city.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—Mr. James I. Barbour, the pattern maker, was at work yesterday over a lathe when a belt broke and striking him in the face injured him severely. One eye was seriously if not fatally injured, while the injury to the other was less severe. He was taken to his home, but it was impossible to tell the extent of his injuries.

AN INVESTIGATION.—Coroner Hall went to Bar Mills yesterday and investigated the death of Mr. Ripley. The investigation brought out no facts other than those published in the PRESS of Wednesday morning, and an inquest was not considered necessary.

SEATS will be provided at the game to-day for ten cents each.

Maine Business Notes.

The steam mill in Augusta will probably be ready to start up in a few days.

Cutler & Eddy's saw mill at East Great Works will shut down in a week or thereabouts.

KENNEBEC COUNTY.

The Lewiston Journal contains a challenge from the Tempest Engine Co. No. 1 of Richmond, to play any engine that participated in the contest at Auburn on the Fourth, for $100 or $200. The playing to take place sometime beteen July 20th and August 1st.

KNOX COUNTY.

The Journal hears that the farm buildings, consisting of dwelling house, ell, shed, hog house, corn barn and two barns, owned and occupied by Samuel Brown and Moses B. Prescott, Vienna, were burned on the evening of the 7th. Supposed cause, spark from a pipe.

The Press says that S. H. Hale's carriage factory at Rockland, was considerably damaged by fire Tuesday morning.

LINCOLN COUNTY.

The Kennebec Journal says: On a little island a few miles out from Boothbay, the other day, a school of some fifty seal was seen. The curious looking creatures were on the land and in the water, sporting about playfully as if they enjoyed bathing.

PENOBSCOT COUNTY.

Bangor's total appropriations for the present municipal year are $202,450.

The Whig says a new passenger engine for the European Railway arrived yesterday from the Portland works. It is a very fine piece of workmanship and a credit to the manufacturers and the road.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

The Union says Edward Stevens, aged 14 years, son of M. B. Stevens, Esq., of Cutler, recently walked ten miles, climbed sixty feet into a tree and captured therefrom a young eagle that measured four feet across the wings. He has been offered $3 for his prize but wants $5.

The Union says a report is in circulation, but some doubted, that Lorenzo Davis, formerly of Cutler, the boy who so dangerously wounded his father with an axe four years ago, was killed recently in a fighting affray in Boston. He has been a wretched wanderer since he committed the crime against his father.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WEED TONIC, AND MANDRAKE PILLS.—These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution. Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a somewhat dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter to the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium. It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach, and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions. Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

An Art Treasure.

No costly work of art can our home boast;
No canvass throbbing with its loves and flowers;
No antique marble from a foreign coast
Rears its nude beauty in a niche of ours.
Such art have we as artist ne'er transcended;
Sculpture and painting, both of sweetest power.
The two in one by such rare art are blended,
As Phidias might dream in happiest hour.
Adored 'bove all the rest the whole world wide.
Thou hast a throne in every home 'neath sky,
Young hearts with thee their every joy divide.
No greater woe our household could befall,
Than loss or wreck of Nellie's China doll.

THE FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Preserving Smoked Meats.

We have been asked to give directions by which a farmer having no tight smoke house may preserve hams, bacon, and smoked beef through the summer from the attacks of flies.

We do not consider the smoky house ordinarily built, to be the best place to preserve cured meats. Our July and August suns are generally so hot as to cause the fat parts to melt more or less and this destroys the integrity of the whole.

The very best way we know is to wrap the meat in the meat in thick brown paper, and enclose each piece separately in sacks made to fit. Sew tight; dip them in a preparation of slacked lime, of the consistency of ordinary paint. Then the pieces may be packed in barrels, with plenty of ashes, or better, pounded charcoal, and kept in a cool, well ventilated cellar, or in the coolest place in the barn.

Another plan is to wrap in paper as before directed, then in an outer layer, and pack in barrels with some good absorbent.

Still another plan is, after wrapping in thick brown paper, to pack in barrels with plenty of dry cut straw, examining them occasionally to see they do not mould, if the weather is damp for any considerable length of time. By this plan, however, it is difficult to keep the meat from contracting mould if entirely excluded from light and air, and where light and air may enter, insects and mould are pretty sure to follow.

A smoke house built so as to prevent the admission of light, and at the same time insure ventilation and a degree of coolness so that the meat will not mould, may be had by placing it under the shade of a spreading tree. It should be built of brick with an ample flue on top protected with blinds at the sides, and a wire gauze at the bottom to prevent their admission of insects, the gauze to be removed when smoking the meat. Another flue at the bottom protected with gauze allows the admission of air. Thus the house may be kept cool and well ventilated, and by throwing it entirely open occasionally at night when dry, meat may be kept perfectly for a long time. This smoke house may be used for a variety of purposes, as for the keeping of ashes in districts where wood is used for fuel.—Western Farm Journal.

Mulching Strawberries.

In Scribner for June, Mr. P. T. Quinn has another of his timely papers on "Rural Topics," from which we take the following:—

In strawberry culture the soil must be rich and mellow prior to planting; the weeds and grass must be kept out of the beds the first season, and there should be no disturbance of the ground near the roots at any time in the spring of the second year, before the fruit is ripe. The time the blossoms come out until the fruit is matured, strawberries require a great deal of moisture. If, from any cause, this moisture of the soil is cut off even for a short time, the yield as well as the size of the fruit will be materially reduced. In a climate like ours, where we are subject to long droughts, it is of the utmost importance to guard against such contingencies. The most simple, practical, and inexpensive way of doing this is by "mulching," or covering the ground between the rows, and among the "stools," with salt marsh hay or straw. This can be done any time through the month of May, and will always repay liberally for the outlay. When the mulching material—salt hay, straw, or pine hay says—is plenty, it may be put on a couple of inches in thickness, no injury resulting from the quantity. The mulch answers a double purpose—of keeping the ground moist, cool, and of even temperature, and at the same time preserving the fruit clean and free from sand and grit, of which there sure is to be much in the fruit when the beds are left without it. By running the mulching material through a hay-cutter, the labor of putting it on is greatly lessened, especially if the rows and plants are close together. The mistake is often made of using fresh hay as a mulch on strawberries, which results in giving a first-class "set" in grass that will choke the vines.

F. FOWLER. S. F. CHASE.

This new Hotel is situated on the corner of Elm Avenue and 41st St., directly opposite the eastern entrance to Main Exhibition Building, and affords an uninterrupted view from its two fronts, of Fairmount Park, Centennial Grounds and Buildings, the Schuylkill River, Girard Avenue with its elegant bridge, and the city of Philadelphia. These surroundings make it one of the most desirable locations in or about the city for persons visiting the exhibition during the heated term. Street cars pass the Hotel for all parts of the city. Our Mr. Fowler, Proprietor of the Passamaquoddy House, Eastport, Me., hopes to welcome all his old patrons and friends visiting the Centennial. my20d2m

MEDICAL.

CATARRH.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE,

The only safe and always reliable remedy for the immediate relief and permanent cure of every symptom and stage of Catarrh. It is a medicine pure as distilled water, and is obtained entirely by distillation of certain herbs and plants whereby the essential medicinal principle is alone obtained, while every particle of woody fibre is rejected. It is entirely unlike every other before the public, and those who have tried all other remedies are assured on the honor of the general agents that this medicine has and will accomplish all that is claimed for it.

CATARRH.

A Case of Six Years' Standing, accompanied by distressing Symptoms, cured by the use of two bottles of

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter:
Gentlemen—Please allow me to testify to the great merits of Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh. For six years I have suffered greatly, particularly while troubled with a cold. The accumulation of mucous in my head and throat kept me constantly hawking and spitting, rendering my presence in company extremely embarrassing to myself and friends. Six months ago I was induced to try Sanford's Radical Cure. After using two bottles I find myself nearly, if not quite, permanently cured. I have since recommended over one hundred bottles with the greatest success.
Respectfully yours,
WM. W. ARMSTRONG,
December 25, 1874. 159 Harrison Ave., Boston.

PERSEVERE

Catarrh, in its extent and destructive force stands next to Consumption and is closely allied to it; for in certain constitutions the transition from one to the other is only a question of time. It is therefore a singular thing that those afflicted with it should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. A single bottle of any remedy cannot, in the chronic stage, effect a cure nor even bring the system under its influence fully. In many such cases the bones and cartilage of the nose are eaten away, the organs of hearing, of seeing, and of tasting so affected as to be rendered useless, the uvula so elongated and inflamed as to produce a constant and distressing cough. The return to health must necessarily be slow, under the most favorable circumstances, when so seriously afflicted; but as the evidence of its great value daily comes to hand, we become more and more satisfied that there does not exist a case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by a judicious and persistent use of Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh. The relief in every case obtained from the first dose is an indication of what it will do when the system is brought constitutionally under its influence.

Each package contains a Treatise on Catarrh and Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube. Price $1.00. For sale by Druggists everywhere. WEEKS & POTTER, BOSTON, General Agents.

Opinions of the Press.

[Hall's Medical Record, N. Y., July 1868.]

Many diseases, considered incurable, causing great suffering in countless thousands of our fellow beings, can in the majority of cases be restored to permanent health under Dr. Scott's Scientific Theory, demonstrating the fact that his mode of treating diseases of a chronic character is unsurpassed by any method now in use. All should consult with him who wish for a speedy cure and thorough advice, as Dr. Scott has had the most remarkable and gratifying success.

[From "The Herald."]

Dr. C. W. Scott delivered a lecture at Cooper Institute, last evening on "Our Physical Decline, Its Cause and Cure." The subject was handled with great ability. Nature's laws were probed to the depths of their hidden secrets in treating upon that science, which stands between death and the loved ones at home. Dr. Scott stands foremost in the ranks of a profession that is surprising even its most ardent enthusiasts in progress towards a higher and nobler humanity.

[From the Boston Transcript, July 10, 1872.]

Standing foremost among the most liberal and most successful of American physicians to-day, is Dr. C. Winfield Scott, at the Asylum Institute Medicina, corner of Asylum and Washington Sts., Boston. He has risen above the narrow prejudices of particular schools, and by treating patients as their cases demand, without sacrificing his abilities to sectarian rules, he has achieved a wonderful success and effected cures that astonished some of the ablest physicians of the day.

[From the "New Haven Daily Union."]

Dr. Scott's lectures at Tyler Hall are being well attended and prove to be very interesting and instructive, especially to those afflicted with Nervous Debility, Opium Eating, Drunkenness, Epilepsy, Apoplexy, Paralysis, &c., &c.

Dr. Scott's cures in some instances are indeed wonderful, especially in Nervous and Chronic Diseases of long standing. The "Famous Wyomoke or Nerve Food," with which he has had such brilliant success, is the result of assiduous scientific research, and without doubt the greatest triumph in medical science yet achieved by man.

☞ In some cases only three days are required to remove the cause of obscure diseases that have afflicted the patient for years—recovery rapid, thorough and permanent.
